Translation:

- 1) Glory, glory to the ārati Lalitā and the gopés offer to Çré Çré Rādhā and Kāñēa!
- 2) Wearing yellow garments and a charming peacock-feather crown, threefold-bending Kāñēa is more handsome than Kāmadeva.
- 3) Dressed in blue garments, Her complexion fair, and Her virtues glorious, King Vāñabhānu's daughter is on playful Kāñēa's left.
- 4) Her many ornaments glisten. Her splendid face charms Kāñēa's heart.
- 5) Viçākhā and the other sakhés sing songs in many rāgas. With cāmāras the priya-narma-sakhés fan the divine couple.
- 6) Yearning to attain the lotus feet of Çré Çré Rādhā-Kāñēa, Bhaktivinoda floats in happiness at the gopés' feet.
